Town & Country Bank Selects Two New Directors, Exceeds Deposit and Loan Projections

St. GEORGE, UT—Town & Country Bank has named Denny Drake and Jim Bingham to its board of directors. Drake, a former mayor of Santa Clara, has been a member of the bank's advisory board since Town & Country opened. He is broker/owner of Drake Real Estate Services and is in partnership with Universal Business Insurance Agency in St. George. Drake also serves as a Washington County Commissioner. Bingham is a retired banker with more than 41 years in the industry. He has held positions as chief financial officer at four different banks and has been involved with five successful bank start ups, including his co-founding of Pacific Coast Bankers' Bank – now reportedly the second largest correspondent bank in the United States.
